

North Side Beaches

Grace Bay Beach

This beautiful and accessible beach is known for its powder-like shores, warm Caribbean waters, and the off-coast barrier reef that protects the beach from wild Atlantic swells. You won't find much seaweed, rocks, or pollution here—this untouched beach is part of the protected area of Princess Alexandra National Park. Here, you can sunbathe on the soft white sand, walk along the seemingly endless stretch of beach, and try water activities like diving, snorkeling, sailing, and fishing excursions. Grace Bay Beach is the departure point for catamaran sails, snorkeling tours, day and sunset cruises, and more.

Whitehaven Beach

Whitehaven Beach is often ranked as one of the most beautiful beaches in the world, known for its 7 kilometers of pristine, powdery white sand made of 98% pure silica. The clear turquoise waters and stunning natural surroundings make it a paradise. Highlights: The view from Hill Inlet, a swirling sand and water formation, is one of the most photographed spots in Australia. It's an excellent spot for swimming, picnicking, and boat tours. The beach is accessible by boat, seaplane, or helicopter.

Cable Beach

Cable Beach is a 22 km (14 mi) stretch of white sand beach on the eastern Indian Ocean and the name of the surrounding suburb in Broome, Western Australia. Cable Beach was named after the telegraph cable laid between Broome and Java in 1889. Low cliffs of red ochre rise behind the very flat and wide beach, with waves that are mostly gentle in the dry season from May to October.^[2] In 2016, the population was 5,436.

Four Mile Beach

Four Mile Beach is a stunning, expansive stretch of coastline located in Port Douglas, Queensland, Australia. It is named for its length, extending approximately four miles (about 6.4 kilometers) along the Coral Sea. Known for its natural beauty, the beach features soft golden sands, crystal-clear waters, and a backdrop of lush rainforests and the mountains of the Daintree National Park. The beach is ideal for swimming, relaxing, and strolling, offering scenic views of nearby Low Isles and the Great Barrier Reef. However, the waters can sometimes be subject to strong currents, so caution is advised for swimmers.

South Side Beaches

Wineglass Bay (Tasmania)

Wineglass Bay, located on Tasmania's east coast within Freycinet National Park, is renowned for its stunning beauty and pristine natural surroundings. The beach is shaped like a perfect crescent, with its soft white sand curving between two headlands. The bay is surrounded by lush forested hills and granite peaks, creating a picturesque backdrop. The crystal-clear turquoise waters are calm and inviting, with a gentle surf lapping at the shore. The area is often considered one of the most beautiful beaches in the world, offering a tranquil and unspoiled environment, perfect for swimming, boating, or simply taking in the spectacular scenery.

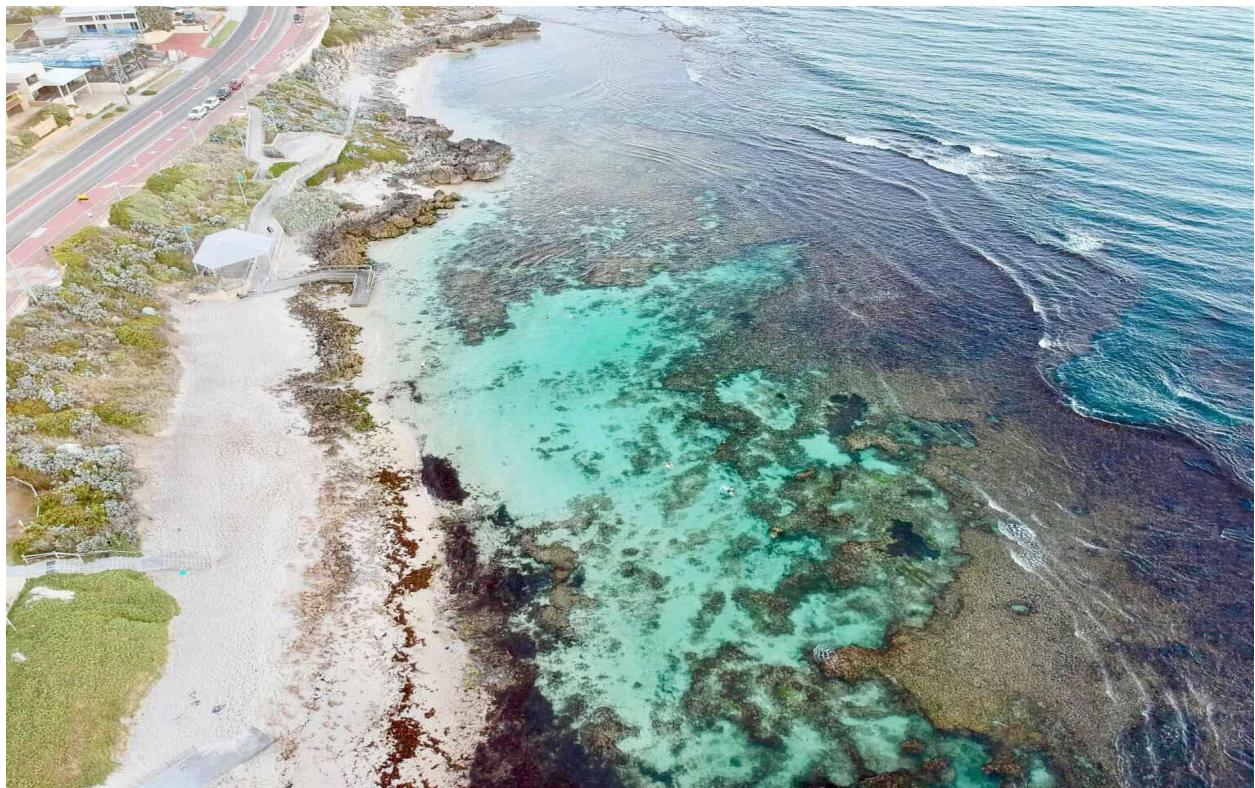

Bay of Fires (Tasmania)

The Bay of Fires is a stunning stretch of coastline located in the northeastern part of Tasmania, Australia. This area is known for its pristine beaches, crystal-clear waters, and unique orange-hued granite boulders that dot the shoreline, giving the bay its name. The Bay of Fires is a popular destination for visitors seeking natural beauty and a sense of isolation. Tasmanian Beach within the Bay of Fires region is renowned for its captivating, picturesque landscapes. The area features

Great Ocean Road Beaches (Victoria)

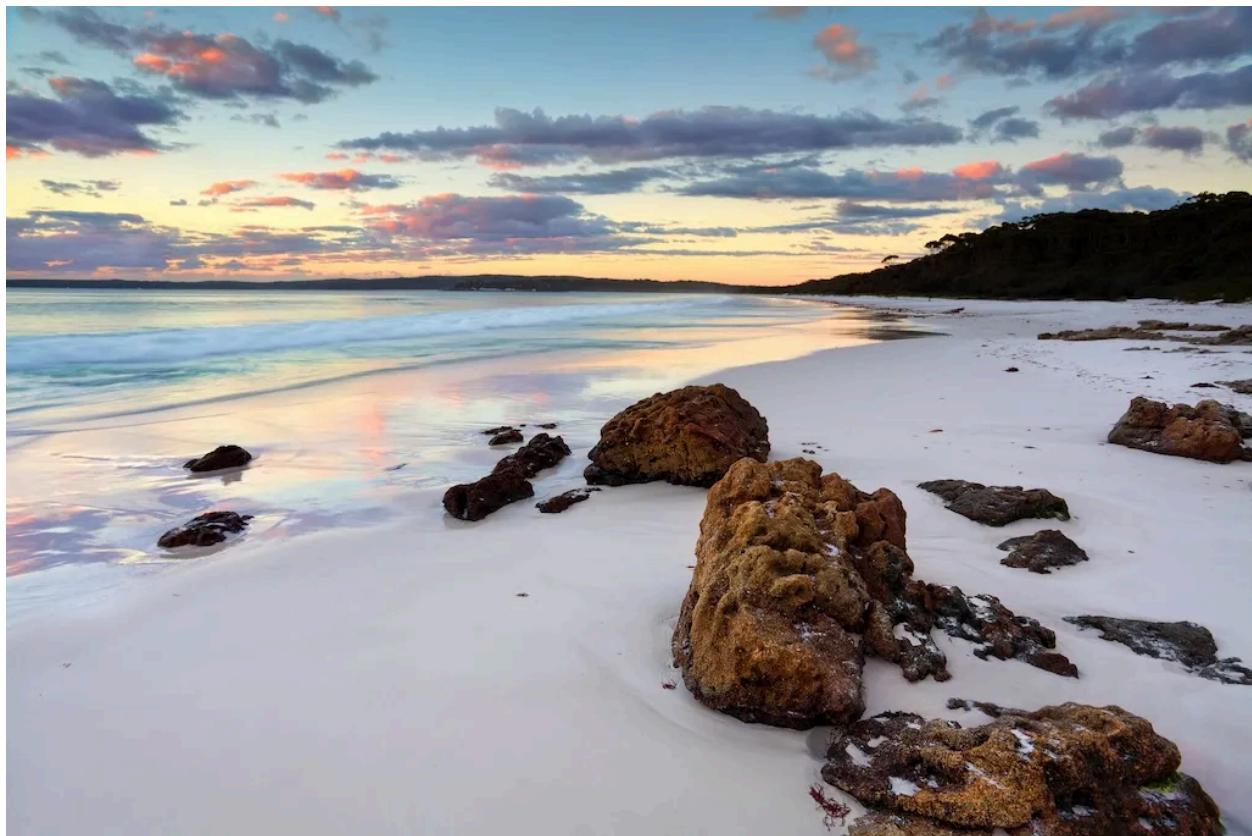

The Great Ocean Road in Victoria, Australia, is renowned for its stunning coastline and picturesque beaches, offering everything from surfing spots to peaceful retreats. The spectacular Great Ocean Road hugs the seaside cliffs that snake along the wild and windswept Southern Ocean. The striking vistas along the iconic road evoke awe with craggy cliffs, empty beaches and soaring bluffs flanked by brilliant green countryside.

Mettam's Pool

Mettam's Pool is a beautiful and tranquil coastal spot located in Trigg, a suburb of Perth, Western Australia. It is a popular destination for both locals and visitors looking to experience clear waters and rich marine life. The pool itself is a natural reef formation, creating a sheltered environment that is perfect for snorkeling and swimming. Clear, calm waters The pool is sheltered from the open ocean by natural reef, which helps calm the waters and make it an ideal spot for swimming, particularly for families and beginners.

East Side Beaches

Hyams Beach (Jervis Bay, New South Wales)

Hyams Beach is a seaside village in the City of Shoalhaven, New South Wales, Australia, on the shores of Jervis Bay. At the 2016 census, it had a population of 112. The village, 180 km south of Sydney, is bordered by two beaches, Chinaman's Beach to the north and Seaman's Beach (sometimes referred to as "Sailors Beach") to the south, with Hyams Beach being in the centre. A seaside resort, its beach is known for having turquoise/aqua-coloured waters and fine, squeaky, brilliantly white sand composed of pure quartz.

Byron Bay (New South Wales)

Byron Bay (Minjungbal: Cavvanbah) is a beachside town located in the far-northeastern corner of New South Wales, Australia (in Bundjalung Country). It is located 772 kilometres (480 mi) north of Sydney and 165 kilometres (103 mi) south of Brisbane. Cape Byron, a headland adjacent to the town, is the easternmost point of mainland Australia. At the 2021 census, the town had a permanent population of 6,330. It is the largest town of Byron Shire local government area, though not the shire's administrative centre (which is Mullumbimby).

Noosa Main Beach (Noosa, Queensland)

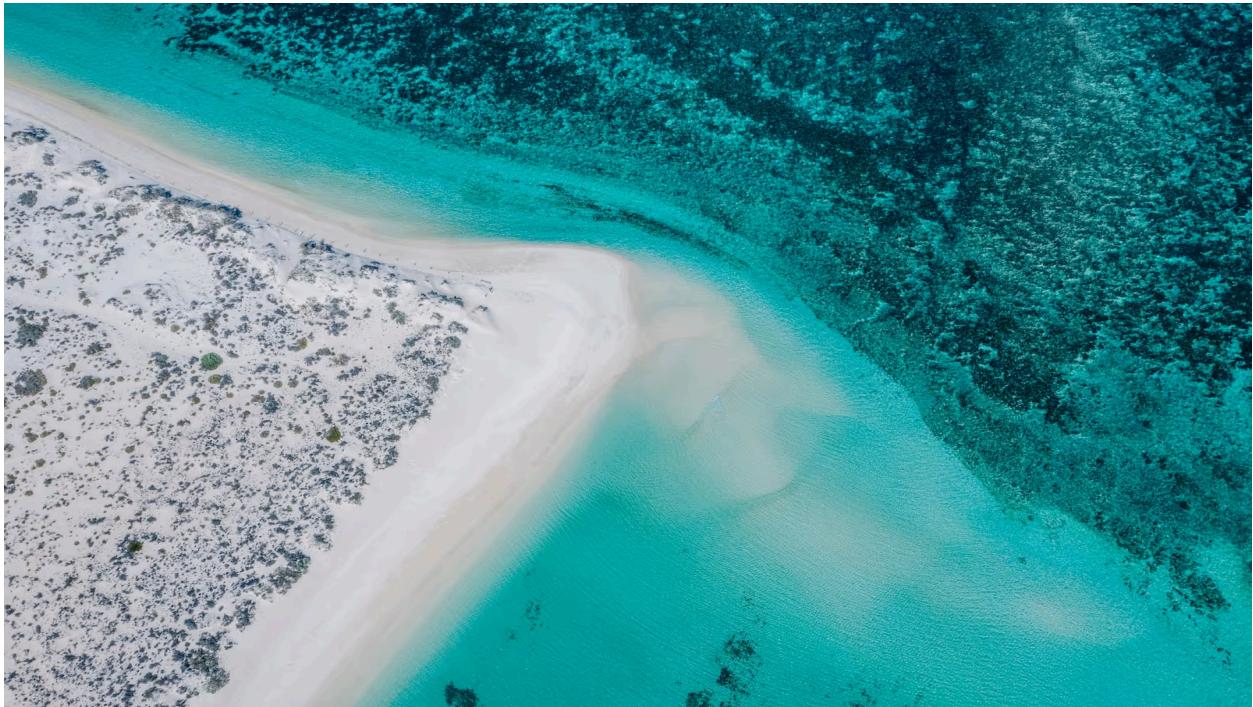

Noosa Main Beach is one of the most iconic and picturesque beaches on the Sunshine Coast, Queensland, Australia. Known for its stunning beauty and relaxed atmosphere, it is a favorite destination for both locals and visitors alike. Calm Waters Unlike many other beaches along the east coast, Noosa Main Beach is north-facing, which makes the waters here relatively calm and perfect for swimming, especially for families and beginners. The sheltered location offers smooth, gentle waves, ideal for paddleboarding, surfing, and swimming.

Palm Cove (Cairns, Queensland)

Palm Cove Beach is a stunning and serene destination located about 27 kilometers north of Cairns on the Sunshine Coast of Queensland Australia. Known for its tranquil atmosphere, beautiful surroundings, and easy access to both the Great Barrier Reef and the Daintree Rainforest, Palm Cove offers an idyllic escape for travelers seeking relaxation and natural beauty. Pristine, Palm-Lined Shores* The beach is renowned for its gentle, golden sands framed by rows of towering palm trees that provide shade and a tropical ambiance. The beachfront is ideal for leisurely walks, sunbathing, or enjoying the peaceful surroundings.

West Side Beaches

Turquoise Bay (Cape Range National Park, Western Australia)

Turquoise Bay lives up to its name, with crystal-clear, turquoise waters and a pristine, white sandy beach. Located in Cape Range National Park, near Exmouth, this beach is ideal for snorkeling, as it offers easy access to the Ningaloo Reef, a UNESCO World Heritage site. The waters are calm, making it perfect for swimming and spotting vibrant marine life like reef fish, turtles, and rays. The rugged cliffs and surrounding natural beauty further enhance the beach's charm.

Lucky Bay (Cape Le Grand National Park, Western Australia)

Lucky Bay is famous for its powdery white sand and crystal-clear waters. Located in Cape Le Grand National Park, near Esperance, it is often referred to as one of the most beautiful beaches in Australia. It's also known for the friendly kangaroos that can often be seen lounging on the beach, adding to its charm.

Smiths Beach (Yallingup, Western Australia)

Smiths Beach is a picturesque beach located in the Margaret River region. It is renowned for its pristine environment, ideal surf conditions, and the surrounding natural beauty of the area. It's a popular spot for surfers, but also perfect for swimming, picnicking, or just relaxing with beautiful views of the coastline.

Elliston Beach (Eyre Peninsula, South Australia)

Elliston Beach is a hidden gem located on the Eyre Peninsula in South Australia, offering pristine beaches, clear waters, and dramatic coastal cliffs. The beach is often quiet, providing a peaceful setting for relaxation and beach walks. It's a great place for swimming, fishing, and exploring the nearby sea caves and rock formations. The colourful sunsets over the ocean add an extra layer of magic to the already breathtaking scenery.